By MIKE ROBINSON
CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker pumped hands at 23 stops around Chicago, where he figures to take a severe beating Tuesday, while his Daley-backed challenger, Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, flew south for last-minute campaigning in Peoria where his nomination drive is believed in trouble. Walker acted to run up his total in the suburbs, where he has to win big to hold his job, and cut back the outpouring of Howlett votes from the patronage-packed Chicago machine of

Mayor Richard J. Daley in the Democratic primary. Howlett, trailing downstate in the polls and said to be badly organized outside the 50 wards the mayor rules, threw away his schedule in the final hours to fly to a vote-rich, United Auto Workers-oriented city where the party chieftain has pledged allegiance to Walker, whose vote-translatable patronage powers are dwarfed by Daley's but formidable. Both Walker, the slick, David Garth-packaged television candidate who stunned the machine in 1972, and Howlett, the tough, wisecracking Irishman from Daley country, planned for Monday the traditional, pre-election airplane storming of the state media markets. Before heading for Peoria, Howlett shook hands with precinct troops in the 45th Ward, run by defeated 1972 attorney general candidate Tommy Lyons. His twin-engine plane then roared out of lakefront Meigs Field for Springfield and a dinner given by the Sons of Erin. Metropoll, commissioned by WBBM-TV and the Chicago Sun-Times, shows the incumbent with 46 per cent of the vote statewide and the challenger with 43 per cent. In the Chicago area, the poll places the candidates dead even with 45 per cent each. Downstate, it puts Walker at 48 per cent and Howlett at 39 per cent. Metropoll analysts say the re-

Ford eyes another victory in Illinois

CHICAGO (AP) — President Ford looked for another victory, Ronald Reagan braced for another defeat and the Republican rivals left the campaign arena to Democratic contestants today on the eve of the Illinois presidential primary election.

It was the fifth leg of the White House relay race and among Democrats, a man who wasn't running, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, loomed over the field as he sought to reassert the dominance he once enjoyed in Illinois presidential politicking.

Ford managers professed to be more concerned about overconfidence than about the ballot-box impact of a budding controversy over Howard H. Callaway, Ford's suspended campaign manager. Callaway faces an investigation of his role in pressing while secretary of the Army for expansion of the federal land leased to a Colorado ski resort he and his brother-in-law control.

Reagan took a campaign breather and awaited the returns in seclusion in California, after saying he would be satisfied to gain 40 per cent of the Illinois popular vote and about one-sixth of the 96 nominating delegates at stake in the primary.

Ford concluded his personal campaigning Friday. His manager, former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, said the President would win by a 2-1 margin in the presidential preference vote, which is purely for show. Ogilvie said he was aiming to win 80 of the 96 GOP delegates for Ford.

Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, who has won three of the four presidential primaries so far; Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace; Sargent Shriver; and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred R. Harris are the entries in the Democratic popularity contest.

But Daley, promoting delegate slates committed to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III as a favorite son candidate, hopes to lead more than 100 of the state's 169 delegates when they go to New York City in July to choose a presidential nominee.

Whatever happens in Tuesday's election, the delegates will in fact be free to vote any way they want at the national convention. Under state law, they are not bound to back the candidate for whom they are listed on the ballot.

And for the Democrats who will be here long after the presidential parade has passed by, the real contest Tuesday was the primary battle between Gov. Daniel Walker and Secretary of State Michael Howlett, Daley's candidate for the governorship.

Wallace staged the most intensive of the campaign windup performances, with appearances slated today in Chicago and three other cities on the way to a final rally in Springfield. Carter was appearing in Chicago, as was Shriver, a candidate in desperate need of a big showing to pull back from the brink of political collapse after fractional shares of the vote in the first four primary states.

Daley, a national Democratic power for two decades, lost his clout to reformers four years ago but was out to rebuild it in this campaign. He was virtually guaranteed command of 59 Chicago delegates and was backing candidates to expand his corps of national convention votes past the 100 mark.

Carter, Wallace and Walker, a Daley foe, all are trying to win delegates. Walker promoted uncommitted delegates as an alternative to those aligned with Daley. Shriver and Harris hoped to pick off at least a few of the convention delegates. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, winner in the Massachusetts presidential primary two weeks ago, bypassed the Illinois campaign.

Carter said on the CBS program "Face the Nation" Sunday that he hopes to run first in the preferential primary and capture at least 21 delegates.

Wallace, on the ABC program "Issues and Answers," said he expects to do well but declined to say what that means. He also said an Illinois defeat would not be fatal to his campaign, battered last Tuesday by Carter's upset victory in the Florida primary.

Ford examines tornado debris

The Alabama governor said he thinks he'll have at least 400 nominating delegates when the Democrats convene next summer.

President Ford points toward spot where roof was blown off Howard Johnson Motor Lodge in Park Ridge, northwest of Chicago, as he tours tornado damage in Illinois. Tornadoes swept through parts of Illinois, Indiana and Michigan, causing severe damage, injuries and deaths. Ford was campaigning for the Illinois primary near the area where some of the tornadoes struck. (AP Wirephoto)

He said he believes he can support the Democratic nominee — but then added that wouldn't necessarily apply to Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona. Udall has said he would bolt the Democratic party before he would support a Wallace ticket. Udall isn't running in Illinois.

Reagan retains a gentlemanly approach in campaign—See page 9

From the Republican candidates there was silence. Reagan's goal seemed to be to play down Illinois and wait for the North Carolina primary one Tuesday hence in hopes he can make a stand there after losing narrowly to Ford in New Hampshire and Florida. The President also won virtually uncontested primary races in Massachusetts and Vermont.

With Callaway temporarily sidelined as Ford's campaign manager, a Justice Department spokesman said Sunday night the FBI is looking into Callaway's involvement in the expansion of the ski resort near Crested Butte, Colo.

In Denver, U.S. Atty. James L. Treece said Sunday night that the FBI is looking into the possibility that a bribe might have been paid to get U.S. Forest Service approval of the plan to expand the resort.

There was no indication Callaway was involved in the bribe offer.

In other political developments: —Jackson, appearing on the NBC program "Meet the Press," renewed his criticism of what he called "the give-away aspects" of U.S. detente with the Soviet Union. He said he doesn't want confrontation but that he does want tough bargaining.

A poll commissioned by Time magazine showed Carter the leading Democrat against Ford, although the President outdid him by 46 to 38 per cent, with 16 per cent undecided, in the poll conducted after the Florida primary. A Gallup poll, however, reported that Carter leads Ford 47 to 42 per cent among voters nationwide, while Jackson trails the President 49 to 39 per cent.

—The Democratic race was complicated over the weekend by the formal entry of California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. into his state's June 8 presidential primary.

—Former Texas Gov. John Connally said after a weekend meeting with GOP leaders from 21 states at his ranch that he still has no plans to run for president. The Democrat-turned-Republican, however, offered some advice to Ford and Reagan: abandon the so-called 11th commandment against public criticism of fellow Republicans.

Strike closes some Las Vegas casinos

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A union that has closed 12 of 15 strike-bound Las Vegas Strip hotel-casinos says a lockout provision in a management proposal must be eliminated before talks can resume.

A fruitless meeting Sunday between negotiators for the 22,000-member Culinary Workers Union and hotel operators added to the feeling here that the walkout, now four days old, could last a long time.

The clause would permit hotels of the Nevada Resort Association to lock out all union members if one member refused to cross another union's picket line.

"There's no way we can talk about money when that clause is there," said Jeff McCall of the CWU. Forbidding members to observe other unions' picket lines would, one union official said, "make the CWU the leper of Southern Nevada labor."

Meanwhile, the strike by waitresses, bartenders, chefs and other workers left the Strip with vacant parking lots and many of its gaudy neon marquees darkened.

The 15 affected hotels contain about 30 per cent of the city's 35,000 rooms.

The union is seeking a raise of $1.35 an hour. Waiters and waitresses now earn about $2.40 an hour and bartenders $4.50, plus tips.

Though picketing generally has been peaceful, 16 persons were arrested Sunday. Police said that in two incidents picketers blocked access to the Circus Circus and Officer Frank Bruns' nose was broken.

The hotel closings sent many tourists heading for home Sunday but not as many as airlines had been planning for. "We expected it, but it didn't happen," said United Airlines spokesman Dick Rhoades.

Apparently most tourists whose hotels had closed or who were disappointed by the closing of big name shows left gradually after the strike began Thursday. Others appeared to have found lodging at smaller hotels and motels and decided to stick around.

The hotels that shut their doors Sunday were the Thunderbird, Sahara, Tropicana, Flamingo Hilton, Las Vegas Hilton and MGM Grand. Six hotels owned by industrialist Howard Hughes closed at the outset of the strike.

Rural Dixon man is apparent suicide

The body of a rural Dixon man, believed to have committed suicide, was found in a quarry near his home Sunday afternoon.

James F. Miller, 41, Rt. 3, was found dead by a 35-member search party which was under the direction of Lee County Sheriff Raymond Nehring. Sheriff's deputies were called to the house of Caroline Hazelwood at 3:29 p.m. Sunday. Mary Stapler, 1918 W. Third St., said Miller had left the Hazelwood residence, located on Sink Hollow Road, in a depressed state of mind.

Stapler said that Miller had recently lost his job at Johnson Wrecking Co., Rt. 3, and was despondent over a lack of money. Stapler last saw Miller at 9:10 a.m. when he left the Hazelwood house. Before Miller left the home he reportedly told Mrs. Hazelwood that he wanted his car and tools he had left given to other individuals.

Twenty minutes after he left the house, Stapler noticed a rifle and shell missing from a living-room display. The two women said they searched in vain for Miller that morning in the area of the house, before calling authorities.

Shortly before 5 p.m. signals went out for volunteers to help in a search party. Fifteen members of the Sauk Valley motorcycle club and 20 people on foot responded to the call. In a half an hour Miller's body was found in a wash gully approximately 600 yards from the Hazelwood house. John Carrington, Rt. 5, a walking member of the search group, located Miller.

Found near Miller's feet was a .22-caliber rifle, with one empty casing in the closed chamber. A stick, believed to have been used to fire the rifle, was found on Miller's body. A bullet hole in the center of Miller's forehead was reported.

Coroner Robert Preston pronounced Miller dead at the scene. Preston searched the body, found no suicide note, but found two live cartridges in a pocket. The body was removed to Preston-Schilling Funeral Home.

A trace-metal detection test by detectives revealed a large amount of powder residue on Miller's left hand.

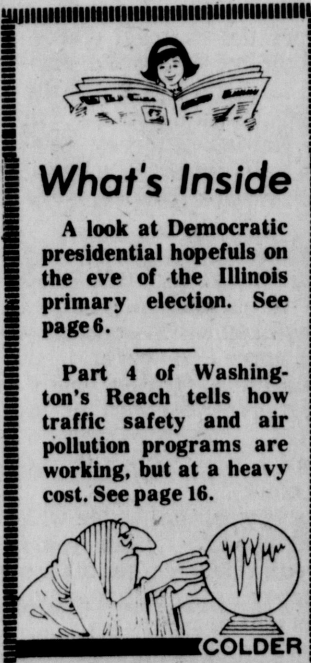

In a coroner's inquest, concluded shortly after 11 a.m. today, a jury found that Miller had died of a cerebral hemorrhage as the result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, with suicidal intent, while under a depressed state of mind.

Miller was born in Dixon Oct. 4, 1934, the son of Charles L. and Anna (McPherson) Miller. He was a veteran.

His father preceded him in death.

Survivors include his mother; a son, Robert, Dixon; six daughters, Mrs. Donald (Annmarie) Wernick, Dixon; Terri, Susan and Sandra, all of Dixon, and LeAnna, Ashton; a sister, Miss JoAnn Miller; and one grandchild.

Private services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Preston-Schilling Funeral Home, with the Rev. Tom Shepherd officiating. Burial will be in Chapel Hill Memorial Park. There will be no visitation.

Radio thefts are reported

Lee County Sheriff's deputies received reports of three stolen citizen's band radios over the weekend.

A CB radio, valued at $200, was taken from a tractor of a truck owned by V. O. Bonnell and Sons, Sublette. Thieves broke a window in the truck to remove the radio Friday night.

Another radio was stolen in Sublette from a Dodge van. That radio belonged to Larry Owens, Sublette. Owens said his van was parked in his parents' driveway when the theft occurred.

Bill Hubbard, Ashton, reported the theft of a CB radio valued at $150 from a truck parked in his driveway. Thieves pried open a wing window on his truck in committing the theft.

Ford raps Congress for lag on revenue sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today accused the Democratic-controlled Congress of threatening the nation's cities with disaster by failing to approve an extension of the revenue-sharing program.

Speaking to a meeting of some 2,000 municipal officials, Ford also chided Congress for being slow in providing supplemental money for an existing public jobs program while defending his veto of the $6-billion public works bill which Congress unsuccessfully tried to override.

Ford said revenue-sharing must be renewed this year but "Congress did not share my sense of urgency. It is becoming increasingly apparent that the Congress fails to understand the importance of this program to the people of the cities, and counties and states of our nation."

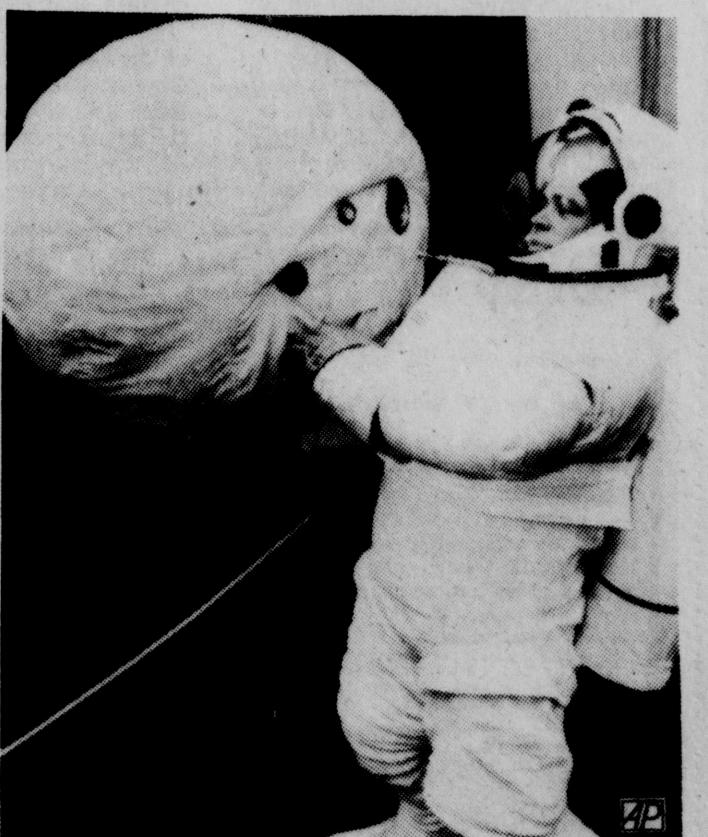

"Failure to renew this program would weaken the fiscal stability of our cities. You know that expiration of this program, or a reduction in the payments you now receive, would mean cutbacks in essential services, increased public and related private sector unemployment, or the imposition of more taxes."

"Maybe this is what some partisans want. But I don't." Ford's attack on Congress followed criticism from some municipal leaders who blamed both the White House and Congress for failing to extend revenue-sharing.

In news conference Sunday opening the annual legislative conference of the U.S. Conference of Mayors and the National League of Cities, Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans said the stalemate was leaving the cities "on the brink of chaos."

Landrieu applauded Ford for proposing an extension of revenue-sharing but said even Ford has "failed to realize the impact that inflation is having on our general revenue-sharing funds."

No easy solution to deficit spending

By DON OAKLEY

The nation is being rocked by two powerful and conflicting tides in this, the 200th year of its existence.

On the one side is a growing public disenchantment with big government, especially big government spending and its inflationary consequences. An indication of this is the fact that the legislatures of eight states so far have passed resolutions asking congress to submit a constitutional amendment that would prohibit federal deficits.

As the U.S. Chamber of Commerce notes, in only one out of the last 16 years has the federal government not run a deficit. The national debt now exceeds $600 billion, or nearly $3,000 for every man, woman and child in the country.

At its 57th annual convention in January, the American Farm Bureau Federation called for a similar antideficit amendment, and in addition adopted a resolution urging "that no salary increase be granted to any elected federal official until the federal budget is balanced."

At the same time, however, there is as much, or more, pressure in the opposite direction — toward even more federal spending on a host of needs.

The federal bail-out of New York is only the worst and most publicized example of the fiscal plight of the cities. Cleveland, one of many large cities on the ailing list, is depending upon $54.8 million in federal aid during the next year just to maintain its already low level of public services. Four years ago, Cleveland's federal subsidy was only $17.8 million.

Because of the "nightmare" of staff cuts and budget cuts facing urban school districts, delegates to the recent annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators talked about boosting federal aid to education to fully one-third of the total national cost.

Said one Oklahoma superintendent, "Our only hope is the federal level. We have no other choice."

At the National Conference of Governors recently, Vice President Nelson Rockefeller recommended a five-point program to "move as rapidly as possible toward 100 per cent federal financing of public assistance" — a total federal takeover of welfare.

The question, of course, is where the federal government is going to get the money for all this except through higher taxes or the creation of even cheaper money by further deficit spending, or both.

Theoretically, it would seem logical that the more the federal government underwrites the responsibilities that once belonged to the states or local communities, the less Americans would have to be taxed on the local level. But it hasn't worked out that way. As federal subsidies have risen, so have state and local taxes — and deficits.

Nor does the record offer much hope that a plan like Ronald Reagan's to return both federal money and responsibilities to the states would reverse this situation.

Here, theoretically, federal expenditures should fall as local expenditures rose. But again, it is unlikely that it would work out that way in practice, for it is the very failure of inability of the states to meet their own needs that is the cause of the expanded role of the federal government. The suggestion that the citizens of the poorer states "vote with their feet" and move elsewhere is somewhat less than brilliant.

We are, in short, on a dizzying merry-go-round. The rising needs and expectations of Americans have led to federal deficits, which have fueled inflation, which in turn has impoverished local governments and led to still more demands for federal spending.

To stop the cycle by barring federal deficits and thereby, it is hoped, curb inflation, may indeed be the necessary first step to a solution. But this would involve wrenching changes many Americans may not wish to contemplate.

There simply is not, nor ever has been, a free lunch.

Courageous Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., Ind.-Va., who takes no nonsense from anybody, spoke in the Senate on behalf of us taxpaying peasants. Sen. Byrd calls a spade a spade — and more power to him!

The occasion was a series of protracted hearings before the Senate Subcommittee on International Finance and Resources, of which Sen. Byrd is chairman. These revealed that 113 foreign governments now owe the United States a total exceeding $60 billion.

If you don't pay your debt to the United States government the U.S. Internal Revenue Service slaps you in jail. But if you're a foreign government, forget it.

This appalling $60 billion due from 113 foreign governments is in addition to the incredible billions we have given away. It has nothing to do with America's foreign aid — all free. It is merely part of the truly due obligations incurred by debtor nations subject to collection.

Moreover, the $60 billion is $2 billion more than even as late as October, 1973.

The figures are official. They are revealed to Sen. Byrd's subcommittee in the testimony of James G. Lowenstein, Dep. Asst. Secretary of State for European Affairs, and Paul H. Boeker, Dep. Asst. Secretary of International Finance and Development. They remain due and payable to this very day. But who would know it?

Calls for end of Uncle Sap image

For example, Britain still owes us $6.8 billion and the basic French debt is $4.68 billion. It goes back to the days of World War I—58 years ago. That $4.68 billion was actually much higher. Surprise, surprise, the French negotiated it down. The result? The principal is $1.97 plus more than $3 billion in unpaid interest.

In 1931 France claimed it couldn't pay that year's installment. Washington declared a one-year moratorium. Our taxpayers have been making up the difference for 45 years.

We gave France colossal military aid in World War I and again in World War II—all free—and postwar Marshall Plan economic aid. Then when France kicked NATO out of France in 1966, the United States left in France $550 million in U.S. facilities usable by France. But we claimed only $370 million. Then we settled for only $100 million. Additionally, we allowed France five years to pay the $100 million—without interest.

The Soviet Union owes us tax-paying peasants $2.6 billion, net. First, the USSR knocked off nearly $2 billion. The United States agreed. It offered only $772 million and required that a "most favored nation" trade clause be included. That clause was defeated. The $722 million became $48 million. No wonder so many millions abroad call us Uncle Sap.

We suffering American taxpayers have poured billions on billions into Latin America—and of our total "loans" at least $3 billion remains unpaid.

We have given $8 billion absolutely free to India since 1951 and a total $10 billion to date. In fact, we've given more aid to India than to any other nation in the world—nearly as much as the Marshall Plan which saved Europe. Yet India, now asking more aid, still owes us $4 billion.

Even oil-rich Iran, ruled by arrogant Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, still owes the United States $35 million for surplus property bought after World War II. It was due in 1950—a full 26 years ago. The Shah is literally walking on money. He makes tremendous European investments, buys our military equipment, dickers to advance millions to Pan American Airways, etc., and lives the life of Riley. But "ta-ta" says the Shah. Our failure to collect is ridiculous.

Looking at the 133 nations, Sen. Byrd is as right as rain in asking why nothing is done. He places the blame squarely where it belongs—on the State Department. Sen. Byrd wisely demands that the State Department should state to those abroad that it is no longer "easy come, easy go" in the United States and that we're in a bind. It's high time that it insists that all money owed us abroad be paid.

The American people are sick and tired, fed up to the teeth, with holding the bag.

Damned if they do, broke if they don't

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is no question that bribing foreign officials to secure business favors is wrong.

But consider the problem of the small firm which refuses to engage in this practice, so common in many countries I have lived or toured. What happens when the small company, as a result of its refusal, loses more of its investment than it can afford?

According to excerpts from the testimony before a congressional committee of Dr. William R. Carden, an official of one such modest company, which has apparently lost its $3 million investment while being praised by the foreign host government for its development work.

"By mid-April we felt that a new contract would soon be signed. But early on the morning of April 15, I was telephoned by a (company) employe and asked to stop at his house. When I arrived, I found the employe quite frightened. I was told that he was instructed to get me to his house and wait for further instruction. A telephone call summoned us in separate cars to the square in Petionville, a Port-au-Prince suburb. Sitting there in my car, I was joined by a . . . man . . .

"Speaking English, he refused to tell me his name . . . He purported to be a member of the government and promised no contract would be forthcoming unless (my company) did the following: 1. fire our (local) attorney who was well-known . . . for his refusal to make payoffs, and hire a Mr. . . . (who later turned out to be an employe of the Department of Justice). 2. Deposit $500,000 in the National Bank and 3. Give yet-to-be-named third parties one-half of the stock in . . . (my company).

" . . . Unless the demands were agreed to, the project would be shifted from department to department until (my company) would finally give up and leave Haiti . . .

" . . . It was only . . . a couple of weeks before the contract discussions were shifted to another ministry and . . . shifted again to the Presidential Commission . . . in June our Haitian attorney telephoned me to report that the Presidential Commission had been abolished . . .

Six months later, Carden was telephoned, told the contract would be signed if his company would agree on two points. The company did, in fact agree. "However, upon arrival in Haiti," Carden continued, "I was presented with an under-the-table demand of $50,000. When I refused, no further discussions took place . . .

"Thus a project that began with such great hopes . . . four years and approximately three million dollars earlier ended with a whimper and not a bang . . .

Nearly a million dollars had been paid for the leasehold development rights to 4,800 acres. Down the drain. The company was denied access to the equipment and were forced to leave it in the country. "For three years we have watched the elements destroy the work we did on the island and turn nearly half a million dollars of equipment and supplies into rusted wrecks . . .

The Ford administration is now proposing a code of ethics to be agreed to by countries worldwide. Officials admit privately there is no evidence this will make more than a dent in the demand by politicians worldwide for bribes. It is usually impossible to prove demands for bribes, or discrimination against firms which refuse to offer bribes, especially in developing countries with tightly knit oligarchies. It is impossible to prove—that is, until a government is replaced by another anxious to discredit its predecessor.

By JOHN F. McMANUS
BELMONT, Mass.—According to Greek mythology, the phoenix was a huge bird which had the ability to rise fresh and young from the ashes of a fire that had totally consumed it. Throughout his career, Richard Nixon has repeatedly appeared to be, politically, as dead as the dodo, another bird, whose name signifies extinction. But Richard Nixon should never be likened to a dodo bird. He is, as he is proving once again, the most phoenix-like politician of our age—or perhaps of any age.

Nixon's ability to arise from deep trouble was demonstrated early in his career. In the midst of his campaign for the Vice Presidency in 1952, a withering blast of corruption charges was levelled at him. Most of the Republican leaders let him know that they wanted him to resign. But the resourceful Mr. Nixon saved his political hide by going on television to detail his financial situation in the famous "Checkers Speech." Democrats labelled the performance "soap opera schmaltz" (no argument here!)—but it worked. Richard Nixon hung on to become our Vice President for the next eight years.

After his narrow loss in 1960 (at that time he was a victim of the eight - years - of - Republicans - eight - years - of - Democrats cycle, the same cycle which later aided him in his quest for the Presidency), he ran unsuccessfully for governor of California in 1962. At the close of that race, which no Republican should have lost, but which Richard Nixon threw away by attacking conservative Republicans, he held the memorable "You don't have Richard Nixon to kick around any more" press conference and retired from politics.

Or so it seemed at the time. Down, but certainly not out, Richard Nixon moved to New York, took up with the Rockefellers even more cozily than before, and laid his plans to emerge from the ashes once again. In 1968, he won the big prize and became our President. In 1972, he won it again, with 49 of the 50 states backing him. But then came Watergate, and once again he appeared to be finished.

Richard Nixon, however, is not an ordinary man. And these are not ordinary times. He rode a carefully contrived, but actually underserved, anti-Communist image all the way to the White House. In keeping with that image, he had for a time been one of Nationalist China's most vocal champions. But actions have always spoken more loudly than words, and it was Mr. Nixon's actions in 1972 that betrayed our Chinese allies and put us into bed with the murderous tyrants in Peking. Now the Chinese Communists are repaying their friend by once again pumping new life into his ashes.

There is a key to understanding the remarkable resiliency of our former President. That key is his career-long willingness to promote the cause of Communism. From his 25 years of sabotaging anti-Communists, to his long support for anti-American proposals like the Atlantic Union, to his more blatant concessions to Red China and the Soviet Union, to his appointment of men like Henry Kissinger, Richard Nixon has always led with his left foot.

Now he calls for more trade and closer ties with Red China. While in Peking, he even joined in applause for the "liberation" of anti-Communist Taiwan. He is still playing the Communists' game. With Kissinger running things in Washington, who would be surprised to see the United States abandon Taiwan, recognize Communist China, and send Richard Nixon to Peking as our ambassador?

Would the always ambitious Mr. Nixon then be satisfied? Who knows? What is certain is that, as long as he lives, Richard Nixon should be neither counted out nor expected to deviate from the Communist line.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Because you're the first to be concerned with the interests of close friends or associates today, they'll make sure your needs are looked after.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You'll be ambitious and industrious today — even more so if embarking on a new project. You can accomplish a lot if you start early.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Today you have a special talent for promoting your self-interests without being offensive. Toot your own horn.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Higher-ups know that if a job needs doing, you're the one! You take responsibilities seriously and will help them and yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You might find yourself in a business situation today where you can use confidential information to put together a package beneficial to all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Where people turned a deaf ear yesterday, they could be more compliant today. It might be worth your while to restate your request.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Conditions having a direct bearing on your self-interests, work or career appear very favorable. Move boldly in these areas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Your ideas are best expressed through others today as you move behind the scenes. Act subtly to keep them on the track.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Others find you're a good person to turn to in solving problems. You quickly provide solutions they would never see.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
If you define your goals and are persistent and patient, you can sway others. Do it today while you have their allegiance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
The knowledge you've accumulated can be put to use today if you look for the proper avenue. It may take a little mental exercise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
A material advantage comes to you through another that doesn't look like much at first glance. You'll recall: A small return is better than none.

your birthday
March 16, 1976

It's very likely you'll be far more enterprising this coming year than you've ever been. An auxiliary venture could provide you a source of additional income.

Tasty fish meets diet demands

By AILEEN CLAIRE
Nea Food Editor

Do you know anyone who is not on a diet, has not been on a diet or is not talking about going on a diet? This four-letter word ranks right next to a certain three-letter word in popularity for conversations and reading. For good reasons.

Today, most doctors advise men and women over 40 to cut down on calories and on foods high in saturated fats, since they tend to contribute to a rise in the blood cholesterol level. Being overweight contributes to many health problems and can shorten one's life. This is why diet and exercise programs prove so interesting to Americans of all ages.

Among the foods medical and nutrition experts suggest is fish — it's lower in saturated fat than meat, is a good source of protein and most fish is lower than meat in calories.

To encourage the eating of more fish and seafood in your home prepare it for special eye appeal as well as taste appeal. A tomato sauce is classic with fish, but try a different topping for baked fish using orange juice as they do in Spain and Andorra.

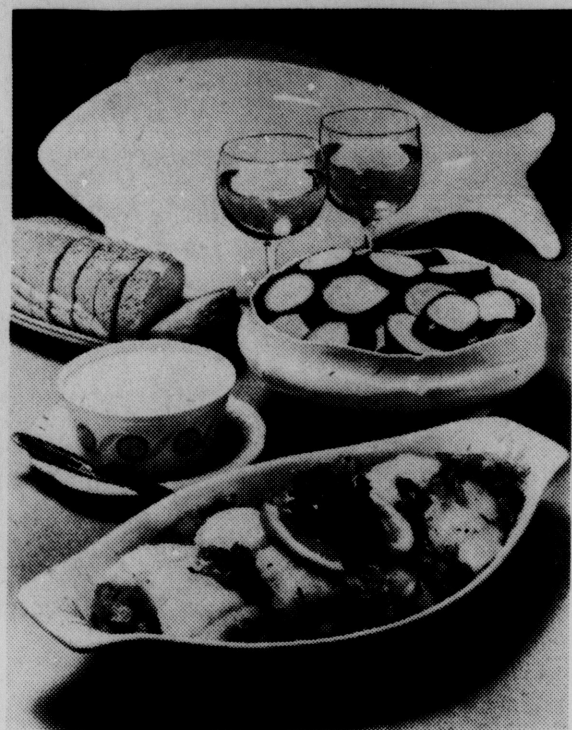

Another treat is fish fillets broiled with a gremolata — a mixture of lemon rind, garlic, chopped parsley and sunflower oil margarine used instead of butter. This is a quick, tasty recipe.

FISH FILLETS WITH GREMOLATA
1 pound fish fillets, fresh or frozen
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons sunflower oil margarine, divided
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 1/2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

1 clove garlic, minced
Place fish on foil-lined broiler pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with 1 tablespoon margarine. Broil 6 inches from heat for 5 minutes. In small bowl cream remaining 1 tablespoon margarine with parsley, lemon rind and garlic. Spread over fish and broil 1 minute longer, until fish flakes when tested with a fork. Makes 4 servings.

ROLLED FISH FILLETS WITH ORANGE TOMATO SAUCE
2 tablespoons sunflower oil margarine
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 large tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped
1/2 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dried leaf savory or thyme
1 pound flounder fillets, fresh or frozen

APPETIZINGLY prepared fish fillets also are healthful.

In a medium saucepan melt margarine. Add onion and cook until tender. Add tomatoes; simmer 10 minutes. Add orange juice, salt and savory. Simmer 5 minutes.
Roll flounder fillets and place in a shallow baking dish. Pour orange tomato sauce over rolls. Bake in 350-degree oven for 25 minutes, until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Garnish with parsley and orange slices. Makes 4 servings.

Herpes is cold-sore virus

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column, you warned of a little-known but not-so-rare disease called Herpes Simplex II, which has been linked with sterility and cancer.

I am not physician. I'm a college counselor who became acquainted with Herpes through the sad experience of a bright, handsome college student who picked up the infection during a holiday break when he renewed an acquaintance with a former girlfriend.

During our discussion he remembered his girlfriend had been intimate with a man who has frequent cold sores.

Herpes is a cold-sore virus that is rapidly becoming a venereal disease because of the increasing incidence of oral-genital sex. Pornographic movies and "art" have popularized oral sex in a way that was unheard of even five years ago.

As a counselor, I can tell you many of my colleagues (as well as sexologists) are directly or indirectly encouraging oral sex play. I think it is only fair that the public be made aware of the risks that accompany this sort of activity.

I have seen many articles on Herpes in the newspapers and popular magazines, but I have never seen any mention of the connection between Herpes and oral sex. Maybe the writers are too gutless to tell it like it is. How about you, Ann Landers?

— Louis A. Berman, Ph.D., Student Counseling Services, U. of Ill.

Dear Dr. B.: The principal purpose of this column is to educate people and help them lead healthier and happier lives. Your letter merits printing and I thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I just returned from a PTA meeting. Twelve parents attended. The school has 300 students. Our meetings never last more than an hour and a half.

Is it any wonder so many kids are in trouble today? If their parents won't bestir themselves to devote 90 minutes one Tuesday a month to attend a meeting that involves the well-being of their children, what can they expect?

Please, Ann, print this letter. I know ours isn't the only PTA that is having a difficult time. Thank you very much. — Oregon Mother

Dear Mother: Here's your letter. And if it makes some people uncomfortable, I'm delighted. You parents out there whose children aren't doing very well in school could learn a lot if you attended some PTA meetings and became acquainted with their teachers. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: My married daughter and I discuss your column on the phone every day. If she asks me if I wrote this letter I will deny it.

R. is a wonderful wife and mother. Her home is immaculate and she's a marvelous cook. But her laundry is awful. The girl washes everything together, regardless of color. The baby's white undershirts and panties are gray. Her husband's shirts are so dingy it's a disgrace. The sheets and pillow cases look blue because she throws her husband's socks in the same machine.

It makes me sick whenever I go over there on Monday and see the way R. does the laundry. Thanks for letting me get this off my chest. I feel better already. — Just Mom

Dear Mom: Why don't you go over there on Tuesday instead of Monday? I'm printing your letter so my readers can see what SOME people get sick about.

Don't get hooked by Bicentennial 'buys'

By JEAN BARNES

The collector of Bicentennial memorabilia must approach with caution the vast array of items available to collectors.

Plates, mugs, buttons, ball-point pens, ashtrays, medals in silver, pewter and bronze, prints, figurines—literally millions of items designed to catch the fancy (and money) of the collector. Its quality ranges from very high to poor. Some of it has artistic merit, much of it doesn't.

After visiting with several dealers, we've put together some advice for those who want to collect items from this historic year.

You should be wary of advertising which implies financial gain for the purchaser of Bicentennial and commemorative objects. Such claims are often unfounded or misleading.

The first plate or whatever of an annual issue is almost always in greater demand and increases in value more rapidly than successive issues. There are exceptions to this but not many.

Limited edition collectibles are only as good as the company which guarantees the limit. Consider the reputation of the manufacturer; the size of the edition and the cost per piece. Is each piece numbered and registered. Will later editions be made from the same molds? Or, will the molds be destroyed?

But destroying the mold is not the total answer. What happens to the artist's model? Will successive molds be made? This may not seem important if you are only spending $10 or $15. But whatever the price you plan to pay, investigate before making your purchase.

Do not buy anything solely for its "investment" potential. Buy what you like and can live with, not for the promise of financial gain. It's an inflated market and you will probably pay "premium" prices for Bicentennial items. In five years, when interest in the celebration has passed it's anybody's guess whether these objects will hold their value.

Dealers also recommend that the Bicentennial collector make a thorough survey of what is on the market before making major acquisitions. Read the trade journals, visit the shops in your area and talk with other collectors.

You will also want to make sure that if you purchase one piece of a set you are not obligated to buy the whole set unless you want it. Sometimes buying the first of a series obligates you to purchase the whole series. Make sure you know the terms of the sale.

The 200th birthday of our nation offers collectors an opportunity to acquire the best and finest of our culture. The discriminating collector will do just that.

Attending Annual Conference
Attending the Illinois Homemakers Extension Federation Annual Conference from Lee County on Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday are Mrs. Galen Willard and Mrs. Dan Hem-brough, Dixon; Mrs. William Young, Amboy; Mrs. Charles Nix, Mrs. Jack Dietz, Harmon, and Extension Adviser Frances Reverts. The theme for the three-day conference is "Home, Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow."

Chair Caning Classes
Being Held

The Home Economics Council is sponsoring classes in chair caning March 23 and 25 at the Lee County 4-H Center, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Those planning to participate are to bring a small article that may be used to learn how to cane. The need will be available to purchase. Pre-registration is required since there is a limited enrollment for each of the classes. Call the county extension office in Amboy, 857-3525, or stop in at the office. Applicants will then receive a list of supplies needed for the class. There is no admission charge for this class.

Furniture Refinishing Class Scheduled
An evening meeting has been scheduled on refinishing furniture to be held March 29, from 7 to 10 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Verle Burhenn will demonstrate how to refinish furniture and how to care for wood furniture. Please contact the county extension office if interested in attending this meeting. Do not bring a piece of furniture to refinish to this meeting. All interested persons are welcome.

Water Heaters Guzzle Energy
You can save both energy and money through wise use of your water heater. After home heating the hot water heater is one of the biggest energy consumers in the house.
Use the middle or low setting on the water heater—don't overheat your water. And make sure the hot water pipes are insulated to prevent heat loss between the heater and the faucets.

Use cold and warm water cycles in the home laundry whenever you can. Save the hot water loads that really need it.

If you don't linger too long, taking hot showers instead of baths also may help reduce your hot water costs.

Do Coupons and Premiums Save or Spend Your Money?
Are you a coupon clipper? Do you buy detergent with towels, glasses or other premiums inside? Was a toy packed with your breakfast cereal? If so, you may be a secret spender.

These may be examples of poor shopping habits rather than ways to save money.

Instead of the savings they advertise, coupons cost you money if you use them to buy something not needed or that is more expensive than you need or ordinarily buy. Clip the coupon only if it means a real savings to you.

Free gifts are seldom free. According to the Better Business Bureau, a gift is free only if it is offered without cost or obligation or if it is available for no more than actual mailing costs. To determine if the merchandise is free, consumer should compare costs of similar products, with and without premiums.

Before buying a product with a toy, towel, glass or other premium inside, ask yourself, "Would I buy this at this price if there were no free gift inside?"

Nonplayer plays pretty well

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Jim: "I see you started off your year of nonplaying by attending a sectional tournament at the Pinehurst Hotel in Pinehurst, N.C."

Oswald: "I was still a nonplayer although I did put in two sessions. The rest of the time I just enjoyed myself. I played in a catch-all pair with Ed Lillard, an old friend, but one I have never played with before. We were barred from scoring any master points or taking any trophies, but we did have a 65 per cent game."

Jim: "The bidding of the first hand looks very good. Were you North or South?"
Oswald: "I was North and elected to open my 5-4-3-1 hand with only eleven high-card points. When Ed jumped to two hearts I rebid four hearts to tell Ed that I had good hearts and a minimum."

Jim: "His five-club bid was very good. He knew you wouldn't pass and hoped that you could bid five diamonds to show that ace."

Oswald: "I did. He jumped to six. He would have made seven except that West was unkind enough to open the ace of spades."

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-431: Dr. Joe is a successful General Practitioner. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I have been very much interested in your stress on the water-soluble trace chemical elements as found in ocean water."

"For my brother is a professor of biochemistry in our state university."

"He also believes that those 44 water-soluble sea chemicals may be the answer to that 120-year lifespan God gave us (Genesis 6:3)."

"For he thinks our so-called deficiency ailments, such as gray hair, diabetes, psoriasis, baldness, and even cancer, are probably due to prolonged deficiency of one or another of those same 44 ocean chemicals.

"Many of my own patients with arthritis, bursitis, neuritis and even some terminal cancer victims have shown surprising benefits from taking a few ounces of ocean water daily."

"And I have also tried the evaporated sea salt, too, but it doesn't seem to give me as desirable results as the ocean water. Why not?"

Live To 120

In the Bible (Genesis 6:3) God allotted us a life-span of 120 years!

But that may depend upon our ingesting the full spectrum of water-soluble chemicals that were in the soil thousands of years ago.

They are still in the oceans but rain and melting snow have washed much of them back to the seas till we fail to get as much of them as did Moses or Abraham and Noah.

So biochemists have long urged us to supply our internal glands and tissue cells with the full spectrum of all 44 water-soluble chemical elements on this Earth.

Remember, all 44 are still in our blood to some degree but in varying amounts, due to how much leaching the rains have done to our topsoil!

Back in 1955, I announced this new biochemical theory via the hundreds of newspapers running this column.

And at that time, several firms in Florida, South Carolina and elsewhere started bottling sea water for sale in natural food stores.

But the head of the Food and Drug Administration immediately started feuding with me and grew so incensed that he made this asinine statement in print:

"Dr. Crane says you can cure anything from dandruff to fallen arches if you use sea water."

"But there is nothing of any medical value in the sea!"

That stupid comment held two glaring fallacies, for I had NEVER said trace chemicals of the sea WOULD cure anything, though I told you that biochemists felt they MIGHT do so!

And now our medical journals admit that over 20 of those 44 are ESSENTIAL for health! So the FDA is slowly getting up-to-date.

Thousands of doctors have written for the following booklet and many say their patients respond better to the sea water than to the sea salt.

A look at the Demo hopefuls on eve of Illinois primary

By ROBERT H. NELLIS
The Illinois Democratic primary election Tuesday will present voters with choices of four presidential hopefuls and delegates to be elected committed to seven candidates and non candidates.

Winning the ballot box preference has a "cosmetic" or psychological effect while capturing convention delegates is a sure road to winning the nomination in July in New York City.

Both are related, however, as Jimmy Carter, the former Georgia governor said Sunday on CBS' Face the Nation program, "I would like to come in first in the Illinois primary to show delegates committed to other candidates that I do have strong support in that state."

"I think it would help later on when it's time for those delegates to make a final decision if I can do well in their district and say, 'listen, I carried the votes of your own people back home and you ought to support me in the convention.'"

Carter said he also hoped to get a fourth of Illinois' 84 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

The Georgia peanut farmer, whose wife campaigned for him in Sterling on Friday, and Alabama Gov. George Wallace are two of the top-running aspirants for the Democratic nod to run for President whose names will appear on the Illinois primary ballot. Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Washington, the third of the front-running trio of candidates has not entered his name in the Illinois preferential primary.

Names of delegates committed to Carter and Wallace and four other candidates and non candidates will also be listed on Tuesday's voting sheet. Jackson is not contending for any delegates from Illinois in the primary election.

Illinois convention delegates will be hard to come by for out-of-state contenders because of the down-to-the-wire struggle between Gov. Dan Walker and Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Daley has called for convention delegates to be committed to non candidate Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., as a favorite son candidate and Walker asks Democrats to elect a slate of delegates pledged to him which he has said will not be committed to any candidate.

This internal scramble for delegate strength for Daley is designed to make him a power broker at the convention and for the governor to keep the mayor from wielding such authority at the party's convention and also to be in hand should a deadlock in nomination occur which might give the governor a shot at being on the national ticket.

Carter picked up fresh momentum by defeating Wallace in Florida and will pull further ahead in the popularity poll if he does win here.

Wallace, who is second to Carter in committed delegates with 58, appearing on ABC's Issues and Answers on Sunday, played down the Carter win in the Sunshine State noting while the fellow Southerner beat him, "I beat Sen. Jackson worse than I did in 1972."

The Alabamian also beat Carter in Massachusetts "which is one of the most liberal states," Wallace said he thought he would do well in the Illinois primary but refused to predict he would win it.

He recalled in 1972 he went to the nominating convention with 400 committed delegates and projected, "I believe I'll have that number by July." It takes 1,500 delegates to win the Democratic nomination to run for President.

"I have gained delegates in states I did not gain in 1972. Then I had none in Mississippi, Massachusetts and South Carolina and now I have delegate improved position all along. I had none in Illinois in 1972 so any I get Tuesday will be a gain."

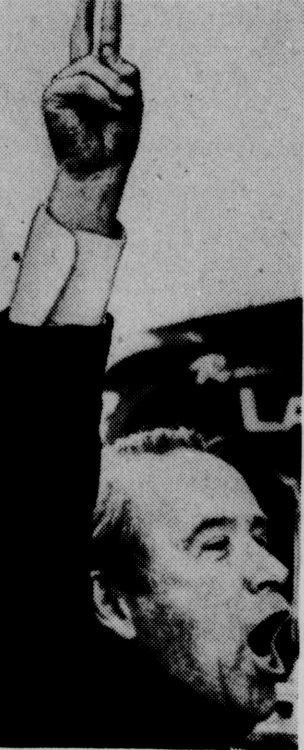

He downplayed a thought he may be losing strength to two rivals, Carter and Jackson, "who say they are on the same conservative track with you."

Wallace replied he was glad others had come to see the issues he had commented on for a long time.

"Middle class America is carrying the whole load, they need tax relief, they need tax reform. They are paying for everything in the country. They are paying for those who make it a profession to be poor, not want to work when they find work. They are paying for higher energy and utility bills and are paying for high priced oil and are those who pay for all the programs while the super rich get by and those who make it a profession to be poor and not better themselves in the system in which we live.

"This is the real issue," said the Alabama governor.

Wallace turned off the idea he would probably have to strike a deal with either Carter or Jackson at the convention.

"If a deal is struck, it will be the middle class and not for the good of George Wallace," asserted the candidate, "these, the working people, the small business men and the farmers pay for inflation and high taxes and all the bills."

Wallace declared the Democratic Party will be in trouble in November "If the platform does not recognize and help of middle class America."

The Southerner said he would not settle for the vice presidency and indicated he would not support Rep. Morris Udall, D-Arizona, should he be the Democratic nominee, but declared, "I don't think he will be."

Last week Udall flatly said he would not support Wallace, should he be the Democratic nominee.

Questioned about the state of his health by his interviewers, Wallace emphatically replied, "If my general health was not good I would not be in this race for the presidency. Some of the best doctors have so certified and I've had a very rigorous schedule as a candidate and since I was injured I have gone through a campaign for governor."

Carter admitted he needs the support of the big industrial states and noted, "Illinois is the first time that I'm really going all out to get delegates and votes in one of them."

He was critical of those candidates who do not try to run in all regions of the country. "I might point out that it's kind of an idle exercise for the 13 but that I strongly support racial integration so let's try something else."

Carter on the CBS program said, "I'm not in favor of mandatory busing. We tried it in the South and it didn't work. Nobody got bused but poor children. I've never seen a rich child get bused."

"I favor the plan worked out for Atlanta (Ga.) which says it's all right to have voluntary busing but blacks have to be adequately represented in running the school system."

The Georgian declared, "I think Boston and other places are 15 to 20 years behind the South and I think they will all come to the Atlanta plan."

Carter was questioned about an Associated Press dispatch in February, 1972, which quoted him as saying he would support a statewide boycott of schools only if the General Assembly failed to pass a resolution call for a constitutional amendment prohibiting busing.

"I think that is not a statement of racial connotation because at that time I was a governor faced with a massive effort, supported by many political figures in Georgia to mount an all out boycott against our public school system because of a threat of busing in Augusta (Ga.) and as an alternative to the boycott and in order to reduce racial tension in the state, I thought it was better to handle to have the legislature pass a simple nonbinding resolution calling on Congress to address the issue by a constitutional amendment, rather than all our kids leave the schools in Georgia."

"The impact of my statement was to defuse racial tension and I don't think it was designed to prey on the divisive and emotional and racist attitudes that did exist in a few of our people," explained Carter.

The Georgian said now he would not favor a constitutional amendment to prohibit forced busing.

"The passage of the Civil Rights acts were the best thing that ever happened to the South in my lifetime. The integration of our schools has not been a step backward for us, but a forward one."

Carter has talked about reorganizing the federal government and either consolidating, or eliminating the 1,900 federal agencies which now exist to not more than 200.

He on Sunday said "There is no way for me to envision at this point as a full-time candidate, which particular agencies in the federal government will survive."

"It took me a full year just to study Georgia's government when we had 300 agencies to start with and we abolished 278 of them either through consolidation or elimination," revealed Carter.

"I can't say that I would reduce the federal payroll through reorganization but we reduced the administrative cost in Georgia tremendously and shifted the saved money into better service to our people," reported the former governor.

Jackson, without mentioning

Carter by name, but noted, "Some candidates have suggested consolidating government agencies and they will end up with more employees. What we need to do is find how to make the programs which are big and small work efficiently and effectively. You can't have a national health plan and talk about administering it with a small program," advised the senator.

Both Jackson and Carter favor a national comprehensive health care program. The Washingtonian pointed out, "We are now spending $118.5 billion on all kinds of health programs and they are not reaching our people. We can achieve full coverage with something less than the $118 billion by making it more efficient and more effective by bringing it down to local governments and local communities involving them in the administration of the program."

Jackson advocates breaking the Department of Health, Education and Welfare into three agencies health, education and welfare.

He is campaigning on a full-employment platform. "Each 1 per cent of unemployment results in a direct loss of more than $12 billion revenues per year and costs $4 billion to support them and that 1 per cent costs $16 billion and multiplying this by a 6 per cent unemployment rate and you have almost $100 billion as the cost of unemployment each year."

The senator declares the true figure for unemployment is near 10 per cent and said he favors, over a four-year period, for the federal government to take over the responsibility for paying unemployment benefits which will cost about $40 billion at the present rate of joblessness.

"I also favor increase federal aid to education from the present 7 per cent to 33 1-3rd per cent over a four-year period," cited Jackson.

He contended "this is the only way to save our cities and our states."

Jackson opined, "Vietnam is the biggest mistake the U.S. government has made since World War II and resulted in the wrong assessment of intelligence about the status and intention of China."

"This is why we need a better system of analysis of intelligence."

gence."

On another comment of foreign policy, Jackson averred, "The last thing we should be in Africa is to be aligned with any group trying to preserve a white minority ruling the black majority."

"In the long run, if we are patient, the black people of Africa will fight off the new colonialism of the Soviet Union," counseled the senator.

He charged under the direction of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger there has been a build-up of armed confrontation between this nation and the Soviet Union. "In 1972, I offered an alternative to go in a different direction than Kissinger and President Nixon which involved a build-up rather than a build-down and I called for a mutual reduction in strategic arms, but they went in just the opposite direction."

Jackson said, as President, if we could not get a mutual reduction with Russia, "I would start to build up the Navy which is half the size it was in 1968 and make it clear to the Russians this country has the will to maintain a viable military posture."

High bile level can be normal

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — In a recent column you stated that bile salts are made from cholesterol and increased elimination of bile salts leads to a decrease in cholesterol. My 21-year-old son has bilirubin "on the high side of normal." The doctor stated that the high bile level is apparently normal in my son. He is slim and athletic and regularly eats large amounts of meat, eggs, and other fatty foods. Is a high blood bile level ever normal? Could high cholesterol levels lead to the overproduction of bile? Is there a relation between the blood bile and his diet?

DEAR READER — Bilirubin is not bile salt, it is a bile pigment. The bile salts are substances in the bile produced by the liver that help to emulsify fats so that they can be absorbed. Bilirubin is a pigment that comes from hemoglobin in the red blood cells.

The adult human body manufactures about 3 million new red blood cells every second. These replace those that are destroyed. As red blood cells break, their iron-containing hemoglobin, which carries oxygen and carbon dioxide, is released into the blood stream. The liver processes this. Through various bodily processes much of the pigment is recycled and used again, but a certain amount of it is eliminated in the bile. This is the major factor in causing bile to have its color and imparts the color to the undigested food residue in the digestive tract.

The bilirubin pigment can increase in the blood because of increased destruction of red blood cells or because of a slow response of the liver to eliminate excess pigment through bile. If the bile ducts are obstructed so they can't drain then bilirubin in the blood will increase.

I have just described the three major results of jaundice, which is caused by increased bilirubin, increased destruction of red blood cells, disease of the liver cells or through disease of the gallbladder and bile ducts obstructing the drainage of bile and bilirubin pigment.

Some people may have a mild elevation of bilirubin without having any significant liver disease or other medical problems. I presume the elevation in your son's case was sufficiently mild and in the absence of any other evidence of disease the doctor has wisely decided that it is of no significance.

Although it's unrelated, your son should change his eating habits and use lean meat, fish, poultry and avoid fatty foods. If he wants to keep his cholesterol intake down he should use a very limited amount of egg yolks. Most heart specialists believe that diet is a significant factor in producing fatty cholesterol deposits in the arteries that leads to heart disease. This process can begin early in life. Many of the young men examined after death in the Korean War were found to have significant fatty cholesterol deposits in their arteries despite the fact that these men had an average age of 22. The best time to start a program to prevent heart and vascular disease is early in life and then continue it.

Chicago firm buys Dixon Publishing Co.

The Dixon Publishing Co., a subsidiary of the B. F. Shaw Printing Co., has been sold to Sleepack Printing Co. of Chicago, according to Douglas Shaw, executive vice president, B. F. Shaw Printing Co.

Sleepack is a family-owned company organized in 1904 which is operated by third-generation descendants of the founder and has plants in Elmhurst and Bellwood.

"Possible buyers were screened very carefully by Dixon Publishing and the Shaws, who chose Sleepack because they felt the company would fit into the Dixon community and carry on the business in the traditional Shaw manner, stressing quality, service and fair dealing," Shaw said.

Shaw will continue in active management of the company until May, 1976, and will continue to serve on the board of the Dixon Publishing Co., which will be operated as a subsidiary of the Sleepack firm.

William Sleepack heads the 72-year-old firm; Stanley Strotman is financial vice president; Bob Kenyon, executive vice president, and George Sinka, director of manufacturing.

Local management of Dixon Publishing will be announced soon, Sleepack reported.

"We are looking forward to substantial growth in Dixon over the years to come," commented Sleepack.

The publishing company operations began in Chicago during May 1936, as the Chicago Shaw Printing Co. In 1945, the building housing the operations was sold and no other suitable site was found and it was decided to move the printing facility to Dixon.

In March 1947 the Dixon plant started in operation at 1000 S. College Ave. and continued at that location until the plant was destroyed by a fire in February of 1958 and the operations were moved to a building at 1226 W. Seventh St., formerly occupied by the McKinnon Chain Co. The publishing company today operates at the Seventh Street location.

Regional official is visitor

Ms. Faye Weatherly, community representative, Community Services Administration Region V office, recently visited the Tri-County Opportunities Council.

The purpose of her visit was to attend the board of directors monthly meeting, review programs operated by Tri-County and visit and discuss job responsibilities of the agency staff.

Other Illinois agencies served by Ms. Weatherly are: Northwestern CAA (Freeport), Decatur-Macon CAA, and Project N.O.W. (Rock Island). Reporting procedures and funding proposals are channeled through Mrs. Weatherly.

Held on theft charge

OREGON—Joseph J. Nelson, 19, Rt. 1, Rochelle, was being held in Ogle County jail today, following his arrest on a warrant charging him with the theft of $1,025. Rochelle Police apprehended Nelson and transported him to the Public Safety Building.

Nelson is accused of obtaining the money from Oliver Mancillas, who was convicted of taking the currency in a burglary at the David Martin residence. A sentencing hearing has been scheduled March 17 for Mancillas.

Nelson was scheduled to appear today before Associate Judge Alan Cargerman.

Steven Dunseth, 23, Hotel Dixon, was found not guilty of assault Friday in Lee County Circuit Court. Dunseth was arrested on the charge by sheriff's deputies Feb. 5.

Chamber group hopes to attract tourists to Dixon

The Tourism Committee of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce met Thursday when detailed plans were made to attract tourists into the area during the summer months.

The chamber staff confirmed over 500 inquiries are received annually from persons seeking new forms of leisure activity. During peak vacation periods, numerous tourists visit the office daily to pick up maps, brochures, etc.

It was noted a large percentage of visitors are interested in obtaining boat rides on Rock River, or rental boats and canoes. Also high on the interest list is the Walgreen Estate, formerly opened to tourists once a year as a fund-raising effort for the Lincoln Memorial Gardens in Springfield. Historic sites, gift, craft and antique shops, recreational facilities, campgrounds, motel and dining accommodations are also of great interest to those seeking weekend diversion.

The committee plans an immediate research of the area in order that information may be correlated and published in brochure form. At the present time, the chamber distributes approximately 10 different brochures on points of interest, however, a real need exists to pinpoint special activities with location, hours, etc., as part of the publication. The chamber continues to offer a weekend recorded message calling attention to public events in the area. Those responsible for this type of activity are reminded to call the chamber office before 3 p.m. on Fridays for free listing of their events.

Presently serving on the committee are board members Tom Sherman, E. Edelman, Co.; Otto Kriva, Donaldson Co.; Rick Hornat, Realtor; Don Hamilton, Whitehouse; Mike Davis, Ramada Inn; and Dick Belcher, Orchard Glen Nursing Home. Belcher has served as the chamber representative to the regional Blackhawk Hills Tourism Council during the past year, and has attended both sectional and state meetings on tourism in Illinois.

Service clubs compete

What do Dixon's service clubs do? Besides raising funds for various charitable efforts and promoting our city, they took time off to struggle against each other Sunday afternoon in ten forms of competition.

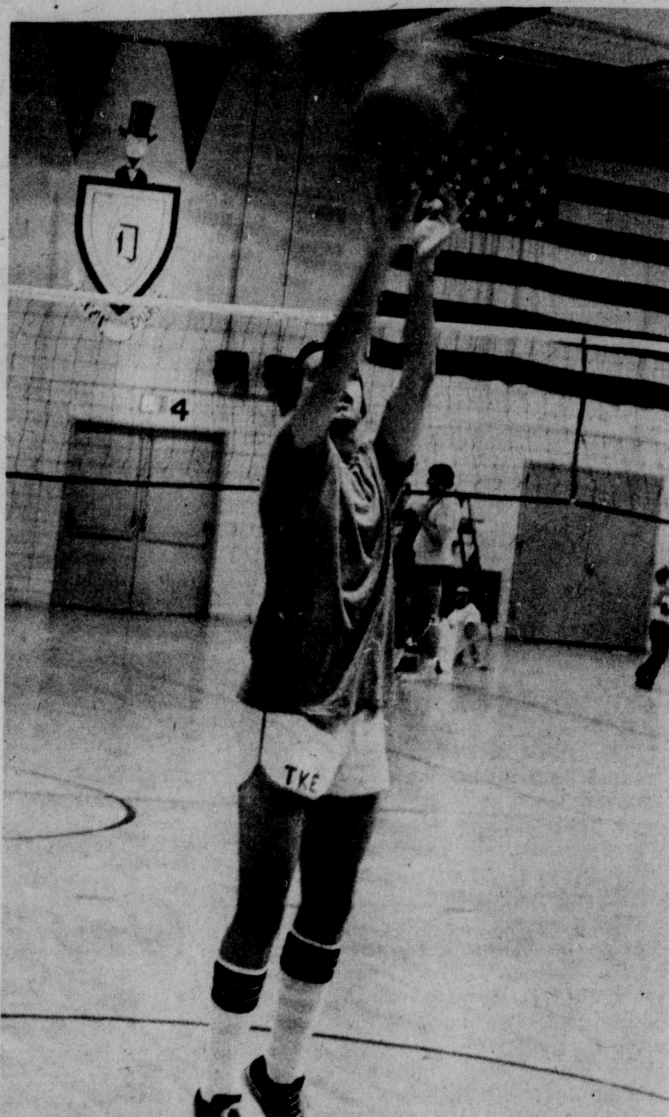

The affair, termed the Second Annual Service Club Olympics, was conducted at Dixon High School's Lancaster Gymnasium under the direction of Rich Sedowski, superintendent of recreation for the Dixon Park District. Seven clubs participated in the events, including Rotary, Noon Lions, Kiwanis, Welcome Wagon, Marine Corps League Optimists and the Jaycees.

When the last event had ended, that afternoon, the Welcome Wagon Club emerged victorious, for the second straight year. The team piled up 81 points with victories in volleyball, horse, two-on-two basketball, table tennis and free-throw competition.

Ken Richards of the Marine Corps League walked off with the Liars Contest crown, but was edged by John Payne (Kiwanis) in a checkers playoff. John Caluwaert of Rotary took the chess title.

The Jaycees, who tied for second place with Kiwanis with 64 points, scored the fastest time for the completion of a jigsaw puzzle. Kent Dennis and Steve French were the Jaycee puzzle experts.

In the afternoon's final competition, Tim Rock, Rotary, won the mile run, but was later hospitalized for overexertion. Rock was listed in fairly good condition today at KSB Hospital. Rotary finished in fourth place overall with 61 points.

Mark Abrams tosses in his 18th shot in 20 attempts as he won a basketball free-throw contest in the Service Club Olympics held Sunday afternoon at Lancaster Gym. Abrams led his Welcome Wagon team to its second consecutive title. (Telegraph Photo)

Reagan gentlemanly throughout Illinois campaign

By T. LEE HUGHES
Associated Press Writer
TAMPICO, Ill. (AP) — Some campaigns come on like a steamroller. Ronald Reagan's was more like a gentlemanly stroll.

Boyishly goodlooking, soft-spoken, quick with a joke, Reagan kept that gentlemanly image right to the end. He virtually tip-toed from one end of Illinois to the other without ever going for the jugular of his Republican primary opponent, President Ford.

Born in Tampico in 1911, Reagan returned here once last month during a campaign swing. The signs said "Welcome Home Dutch," a nickname from Reagan's youth. Citizens jammed the street to catch a glimpse. Reagan himself gushed, "Oh my, such memories here."

It was soft-sell, homespun, even-tempered, like most of Reagan's campaign for Tuesday's Illinois primary. The day before he went to Tampico Reagan said: "On Nov. 20 I made a pledge to you, my fellow Republicans, that I would do nothing to divide our party...I will not speak ill of another Republican."

Then came the New Hampshire primary defeat and signs he was in increasing trouble in Florida. When the former California governor returned to Illinois a week ago, he was indeed speaking ill of another Republican.

Reagan blamed Ford for declining U. S. military strength, rapped his approach toward détente and accused him of policies based on expediency. But even as he did so, he sounded almost apologetic.

"Despite Mr. Ford's evident decency and honor and patriotism, he has shown neither the vision nor the leadership necessary to halt...the military decline of the United States," Reagan said. "Those of us who like Gerald Ford know that this is the truth, we are sadly aware of that fact."

Later, in Marion, it appeared briefly as if Reagan was going to shed his gentleman's role and slap Ford with the issue of Watergate. In a speech, Reagan said, "I don't think we want to go into that battle against the Democrats in November having to defend a part of the past which Republicans would like to be left to history."

At Reagan's next airport stop, he was besieged with questions from reporters about the remark. And by the end of the day he was saying, "It was taken as I was implying that somehow Mr. Ford was implicated (in Watergate), and I did not intend that, so I won't say it again."

Toward the end of last week state Rep. Donald Totten, Reagan's Illinois campaign director, said he had advised that Reagan step up his attacks on Ford, noting, "He ought to say (Ford) is buying votes by promising projects, by appointments and other proposals throughout the country."

On Friday, his last full day in Illinois, Reagan did enumerate what he said were some of the projects promised by Ford in Florida. But it was done without fervor, in response to a question at a meeting with some suburban Chicago business executives.

Shortly thereafter, Reagan mentioned to a reporter that he felt Ford forces were "lying in their teeth" about his expected strength in early primary states and playing the "cheap-kind of politics" by promising local projects to get votes.

Media repetition of the remarks made them seem more an attack than they were. Despite numerous opportunities to expand on the theme throughout the day, Reagan virtually let it drop.

When the big artillery finally was rolled out, it was Totten instead who was doing the firing. He accused the Ford campaign of "outright attempts to bribe the American electorate" and said, "Persons have been indicted and convicted in this state for doing...that sort of thing with their own money."

Reagan's chance for a final parting shot in Illinois came Saturday.

Ford's campaign manager,

Howard "Bo" Callaway, was suspended amid charges he improperly influenced federal officials in connection with expansion of a ski resort he owns in Colorado.

For weeks, Reagan had been railing against the Washington "buddy system," but when asked about the Callaway suspension at a final news conference in Springfield, his response was cautious and even-tempered.

"I hope for the sake of our country that it will be proven that there was no wrongdoing on anyone's part," Reagan said.

Reagan then climbed aboard his chartered plane and headed back for California. Behind he left memories of his Tampico homecoming, of countless rosy-cheeked Reagan girls, banners, pounding high school bands and cheering supporters.

But he departed as he came: the gentleman campaigner. And in Illinois, at least, the President's jugular remained intact.

Campaign finale in trouble spots for Walker, Howlett

sults, obtained two weeks ago, merely mean that the bitter fight, in which Walker said Howlett is "in hock to the race-track interests" and the secretary called the governor "a bum" and "a jalopy spewing dirt," is too close to call. The view is shared by most newsmen who have been on the campaign trail. Eleventh-hour moves in the electorate sometimes decide such a race.

Few doubt the victor will face in November attorney James R. Thompson of Chicago, a former federal prosecutor who jailed a number of Daley's men in an anti-corruption crusade. He should easily dispose in the Republican primary of diet club millionaire Richard Cooper, a political novice who has run a clumsy and disorganized campaign with no substantial party support.

The Metropoll results may reflect a bettering of the governor's suburban standing since the start of his television commercials, produced by New York political consultant David Garth, that proclaim: "Yes, Dan Walker fights hard. That's why Dan Walker is the first governor in 27 years who hasn't raised your taxes." Such media spots were brilliantly effective in his 1972 triumphs over Daley-backed Paul Simon and Republican incumbent Richard B. Ogilvie.

But the results could point to a drop from his Republican crossover-fueled totals of 1972, when he lost Cook County by just over 20,000 votes while rolling up 63 per cent in the Cook suburbs but won the six Regional Transportation Authority counties, including Cook, by a little more than 20,000, accumulating 69 per cent of the ballots in the five "collar counties."

To win, Walker must do exceptionally well in the suburbs and the biggest 21 of the 96 downstate counties outside the RTA region. His organization, constructed by chief advisor Victor de Grazia and now fueled by patronage jobs in state departments, polled 55 per cent downstate in 1972 while losing the total vote in the smallest 75 counties to Simon.

Howlett's team in this city is perhaps the most effective vote-producing aggregation in American political history, the Chicago Regular Democratic Organization, the Chicago machine. The mayor, who is county chairman, gave Simon a plurality here of 85,000 but the then lieutenant governor and now congressman was outpolled by his running mate, Neil Hartigan, a Daley follower who was nominated and elected in a political shotgun wedding with Walker.

Howlett's organization downstate, headed by Rock Island County Chairman John Geanulis, an employee of the secretary of state's office, is the candidate's own and not the mayor's. It is said to be weak in spots.

Issues appear to mean little in the race. As Howlett, seldom one to mince words, said in an interview, "Issues are bull!" The statement predictably was seized on by Walker as "an insult to the voters."

Howlett was hurt—how badly is not known—by two disclosures. He received $15,000 a year from scrap iron dealers through 15 years in office but denies charges that he backed legislation favorable to them. He also placed $100,000 in campaign funds in his personal account and paid taxes on them as personal income, a move he has not explained.

Walker has been hurt—again, no one knows how badly—by his veto of state school aid and a refusal until the final days of the race to make public the list of 1972 campaign donors. He has been helped by the tax issue.

In other state races, most of which have been unspectacular:

Lieutenant Governor: Hartigan is opposed on the Democratic side by sanitary district Commissioner Joanne Alter, wife of an air conditioning parts distributor and political donor, who went first to the mayor and, failing that, to the governor for support. She is the only Walkerite who sought backing from Daley's slatemaking committee of party elders. Republican David O'Neil, sheriff of heavily democratic St. Clair County, faces suburban GOP activist Joan Anderson.

Secretary of State: State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon, the self-styled "boy from Belleville," was ordered out of the gubernatorial field by Daley to make room for Howlett and settled for slating as secretary of state, which he won only after a hang-tough battle of nerves with Hartigan. He faces Walkerite Vincent DeMuzio, a freshman state senator from Carlinville. The winner will go against Senate Minority Leader William C. Harris of Pontiac.

Attorney General: Senate President Cecil A. Partee of Chicago, a Daley committeeman who would be the first black attorney general if elected, is battling Walkerite Ronald Stackler, director of the state Department of Registration and Education. The winner takes on incumbent Republican William J. Scott.

Comptroller: Walkerite Roland Burris, director of the Department of General Services who would be the first black comptroller if elected, faces Daleyite Michael J. Bakalis, a former Northern Illinois University dean who in an upset win on Stevenson coattails in 1970 became the last state superintendent of public instruction before the post was turned into a non-elective one. He lauded the governor while angling for the appointment and, failing, turned against Walker. The victor battles Republican incumbent George W. Lindberg in November.

The Second Baptist Church is having an appreciation day service for the Rev. A. J. Downing and his family on March 21 at 4 p.m. Members from the Pilgrim Baptist Church, the New Zion Baptist Church (both of Rockford) and the Macedonia Baptist Church, Sterling, will be in attendance. The service is open to the public.

Walnut High School Board discusses possible budget cuts

WALNUT — The Walnut Community High School District Board of Education met last week for payment, after payroll and bills totaling $33,778.72 were approved for payment. Superintendent Bellaver reported on the suspension of five students since the last board meeting.

The school board elections were discussed. At this time no petitions have been filed. The final date for filing is Friday. Two vacancies will exist due to the decision not to run for reelection by President Tom Durham and Secretary Louis Gonigam III. The election will be held on April 10 from noon to 7 p.m., at the Walnut High School Art Room next to the parking lot in the rear of the main building.

The board approved a policy regarding teacher absences in the form of sick leave, emergency and personal leave, bereavement leave and jury duty. This policy was made retroactive to July 1, 1975.

A change in the master-schedule was discussed; the change being from the present nine 40-minute period day to a possible seven 55-minute period day. Dr. Bellaver recommended that the faculty continue to look into the situation. One other possibility would be three 55-minute periods in the afternoon schedule rather than four 40-minute periods. This would give the faculty and students the opportunity to compare the different class periods and their effects on the particular classes without drastically changing the present schedule.

The board then went into executive session to discuss the 1976-77 budget as it effects specific personnel cuts. Those teachers affected were allowed to discuss their situation with the board.

The loss of the educational tax referendum in November has forced the board to look at the financial alternatives. One alternative is to continue with the present expenditures which would increase the indebtedness of the district until the maximum debt limit was reached. Another alternative is to cut the budget so as to decrease the expenditures and with it the rare that the district would go into debt. There is a possibility of cutting the budget to make the debt minimal and still not greatly affect the educational offerings available to the students. However, inflation and other factors such as decreasing state aid because of decreasing enrollments make this task more difficult each year where wither the debt must be allowed to increase or else educational programs and opportunities would have to be cut.

The Education Fund is expected to have a deficit of approximately $35,000 as of June 30. Anticipation warrants will have to be taken out in April and possibly May and June if the property tax distribution is delayed by two months, as the schools have been informed by the Bureau County Clerk. In surveying the budget, the board has determined approximately $15,000 to $20,000 can be cut from the budget in the following areas: Instruction supplies, library and A-V supplies, administrative others, instructional travel, instructional others, WAVE tuition (based on pre-enrollment figures), equipment, athletic supplies, athletic others, and staff changes. The $5,000 difference in approximation is due to the unpredictability and unanticipated expenditures in some of the areas.

Since these budget cuts still leave the district short at alleviating this deficit, the following staff cuts were discussed: Music from full time to half time. Eliminate half time

English position. Home Economics from full time to half time. Industrial Arts from full time to half time. Eliminate extra half month for librarian. Eliminate extra month for Agriculture.

If all of the above mentioned cuts were made, the savings would be approximately $29,000.

Supt. Bellaver discussed the school's membership in the North Central Association. The cost of membership next year plus the scheduled evaluation could run as high as $1,000. The main benefit of the NCA is its extensive evaluations. However the state does have mandatory school evaluations and the school could include the scope of the NCA evaluation. This item will be discussed at a later date.

The board received the resignation of Margaret Yonk from her math teaching position at Walnut High School. The filling of this position will be determined at a later date. Mrs. Yonk has taught at Walnut High School since 1938, with time off from 1945-55.

An interfund loan of $9,000 from the Working Cash Fund to the Education Fund was approved in order to pay the March bills thus avoiding anticipation warrants until April. $40,000 has previously been borrowed from the Building and Transportation Funds for the same purpose. However, these loans must be paid back to their respective funds within one year.

Winner of the sixth grade division of the Grand Detour School's "Fun Fair" poster contest is Jane Ferolo. Sheryl Swanson won first place in the fifth grade division. The 16th annual "Fun Fair" will be held from 5 to 9 p.m. Saturday at the school. The theme for this year's fair is "American Time Machine." Games, a cake walk and a haunted trip to the moon will be featured and Betsy Ross' General Store will offer stitched items and home-baked foods for sale. Tickets for a meal of barbecued or ham sandwiches may be purchased from any student or at the school Saturday evening. The Grand Detour Parent Teacher Association is sponsoring the event and will use the proceeds to benefit the school. (Telegraph Photo)

PTO meeting

Madison School PTO will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. After a short meeting the Grade School Cadet Band will give a concert.

Plugging the Leaks

Frank Church heads a Senate select committee that took special care to keep its final report a secret until its public presentation. The committee's report was scheduled to be submitted to the full Senate this week. The report of its House counterpart, chaired by Rep. Otis Pike, was leaked to the public. The Church committee hoped to make its report "leak-proof." Each committee member received his own copy with his name emblazoned across every page. The committee also planned to watch its document-copying machines and to spot-check materials carried out of its offices by committee employees.

DO YOU KNOW — What select committee has been headed by Sen. Frank Church?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — Juliette Gordon Low founded American Girl Scouting.

At Mount Pulaski Sunday Fans greet 'A' champs

MOUNT PULASKI, Ill. (AP) — Mount Pulaski's Illinois State High School Association Class A champions were greeted by more than 5,000 fans in the school gymnasium when they returned home.

The Hilltoppers' caravan began in Champaign as a one-vehicle parade Sunday, but by the time the team reached the gymnasium, it was joined by about 100 cars, 10 fire trucks, three ambulances and four police cars during stops in Clinton, Chestnut, Lakewood, Warrensburg and Latham.

At a pep rally, Coach Ed Butkovich gave special recognition to assistant coaches Jim Cooper and Joe Zimmerman, who he said spent several hours reviewing scouting reports and planning bench strategy during the tournament.

Butkovich later brought tears to the eyes of many in the audience, including his wife Pat, when he called his two daughters, Cindy and Julie, forward to pin the coach's state championship medallion on their mother. Cindy and Julie are both cheerleaders for the team.

School Supt. Lee Taylor ended the convocation on a winning note—at least for students—when he announced there would be no school today.

The Hilltoppers' 59-58 victory over ROVA did not prove to be anticlimactic, as there was fear it might be after Jay Shidler's spectacular individual performance paced Lawrenceville to a third-place triumph over Buda Western.

Shidler pumped in 45 points in the game after a 48-point spree in the semifinals for a tournament total of 157 points, smashing the all-tournament record of 152 set by Dave Robisch of Springfield in 1967.

But the championship game was a spectacle in its own right, as it turned out to be a pulsating contest which wasn't decided until ROVA's Dwight Peterson missed a final shot with three seconds to play.

Jeff Clements was Mount Pulaski's hero. Not only did he connect on what proved to be the winning basket with 42 seconds to play, but he scored 10 of his team's 14 points in the final quarter to offset the thunder of the Johnson brothers, Dave and Steve.

Dave Johnson led all scorers with 28 points and his younger brother added six in the final quarter as the lead changed hands four times in the final two minutes of play.

Mount Pulaski's first state championship didn't come easy. The Hilltoppers had to get by two undefeated teams—top-ranked Eldorado and No. 3 Buda Western—before meeting ROVA in the title game.

Earlier, Lawrenceville downed Buda Western 65-57 to capture third place. In semifinals games, ROVA had defeated Lawrenceville 77-70 and Mount Pulaski stopped Buda Western 74-56.

FIGHTING FOR REBOUND—Mitch Kupchak (21) of North Carolina, although outnumbered two-to-one by David Brown (22) and Stan Rome (3) of Clemson, seems to have upperhand while fighting for rebound under Clemson basket. North Carolina won semifinal ACC tournament game in Landover, Md., 82-74. (AP Wirephoto)

Tournament notes

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Jay Shidler, Lawrenceville's record-smashing star, and Dave Johnson of ROVA were unanimous selections on the Associated Press Class A all-tournament team selected by sportswriters and sportscasters covering the event.

Jeff Clements, who scored the winning basket in Mount Pulaski's 59-58 title triumph over ROVA, missed being a unanimous selection by only three votes.

Mike Duff of Eldorado and Steve Holmes of ROVA rounded out the first team.

The second team was made up of David Thompson and David Welch of Mount Pulaski, Ron Hapbach of Buda Western and Tim Fichtel and John Momper of Marmion Military Academy.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Jay Shidler, the all-state, all-tournament, all-everything star from Lawrenceville, captured the Class A Illinois High School basketball tournament scoring championship in a landslide.

Shidler, who scored a Class A tournament record 48 points in the semifinals Saturday and then came back with a 45-point performance in Lawrenceville's third place triumph, finished the tournament with 157 points.

That was enough to break the Class A tournament record of 123 points by Don Robinson of Thomson in 1972 and the all-tournament record of 152 set by Dave Robisch of Springfield in 1967.

Dave Johnson of ROVA was runnerup to Shidler with 105 points, followed by Jeff Clements of Mount Pulaski with 87 points.

Daniels wins

SPRINGFIELD—Grady Daniels, coached by Al Silvis of the Sterling Boxing Club and George Reed of Dixon, earned a trip to the Tournament of Champions in Miami Beach March 23-25 with a 1:32 knockout in the second round of a match against Byran Westmorland, here, Sunday night.

Daniels drew a bye in the first round and then defeated Westmorland in the state Golden Gloves competition. Westmorland represented the North County Boxing Club in the matches at the Springfield Armory.

The victory boosted the Daniels career record to 47-3 for the 24-year-old boxer.

Kuhn is optimistic

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn is expected to step in today and order the opening of baseball's spring training camps while negotiations continue between club owners and the Players Association over a new labor contract.

"I can't offer you a hard date, whether it is Monday or Tuesday, but we will have baseball on time," Kuhn said Sunday in a surprise appearance at the hotel where negotiations are taking place.

Despite Kuhn's optimism, the negotiators issued four reports at the end of the 29th negotiating session.

"We're a long way from having the key to the padlock," said John Gaherin, the chief negotiator for the owners.

"There is no drastic change at all," said Gaherin. "We're still confronted with the same problems at the same dimensions."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, agreed with Gaherin. Miller indicated, however, that the owners were stonewalling until a specific time, and then would break the impasse.

Hubert Green cops Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — Hubert Green describes himself as "just a skinny kid from Birmingham."

But in only five full seasons on the pro golf tour, this skinny kid from Birmingham has won nine American titles, a big-money Japanese event and almost $600,000. But that, says Hubert, doesn't make him a great golfer.

"A great golfer, in my mind, is a man who wins the majors — who wins more than one of the majors," Green said. "When I think of great players, I think of Hogan and Snead, men like that."

"I don't wear those kind of shoes."

mounted three unsuccessful challenges in as many weeks, three-putted the final hole for a bogey that dropped him back into a tie for second with Nicklaus. Each had a 276 total. Nicklaus, who had difficulties with the par five holes, shot a 68 that wasn't good enough to get him in the chase. Hayes had a closing 71.

Ben Crenshaw, winner of consecutive titles earlier in the year, managed a 71 and fourth at 277. Bobby Mitchell and Australian David Graham were at 278, Mitchell after a struggling 73, Graham with a final round of par 72.

The victory was worth $40,000 to Green from the total purse of $200,000 and, perhaps of equal importance, made him only the seventh man to gain entry to the elite field for the new World Series of Golf to be played in Akron, Ohio, this fall.

But that's the next step for the lean and lanky man who scored a run-away, six-stroke, record-setting victory Sunday in the Doral Open.

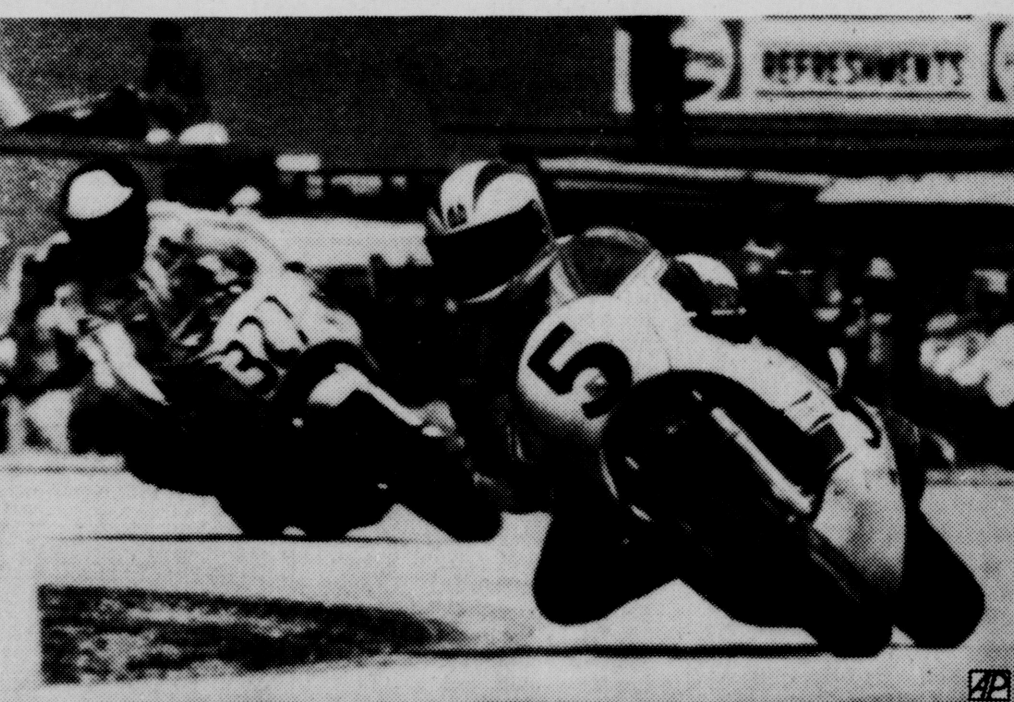

"After you've won nine tournaments, or 15 tournaments, they just become numbers," Green said after his 18-under-par 270 total had set a record for the demanding, 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club and left defending champion Jack Nicklaus and young Mark Hayes struggling in his wake.

"Maybe all players don't do it, but I point for the majors," Green said. "I hope to win one someday. That's the next step toward becoming a really good player."

Green, at 29 one of the leading characters in the cast of young men who rapidly are claiming the tour for their own, had been in a slump since winning the Dunlop Phoenix tournament in Japan last November.

But he staked himself to a five-stroke lead through three rounds of this event, faltered briefly in the final round, but came home a big winner with a front-running, three-under-par 69. He clinched it with a 25-foot birdie putt on the 14th that put him five in front with four to play.

Hayes, a quiet young man from Oklahoma who now has

Alabama stuns North Carolina

By HERSHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Quick, Bear Bryant, if you really know how to walk on water now's the time to tell C.M. Newton.

South Bend, Ind., along with No. 16 Western Michigan, a 77-67 winner over Virginia Tech in overtime.

Perhaps taking a cue from Bryant's Alabama footballers, who finally won a postseason contest last season, Newton's eighth-ranked cagers registered the school's first-ever triumph in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament Saturday, knocking off fifth-ranked North Carolina 79-64.

At Lawrence, Kan., seventh-ranked Notre Dame needed the luck of the Irish to nose out No. 15 Cincinnati 79-78 and No. 10 Missouri shaded No. 11 Washington 69-67. Michigan, ranked 14th, squeaked past Wichita State 74-73 at Denton, Tex., while No. 19 Texas Tech trounced Syracuse 69-56.

That sends the Crimson Tide on to the next round of the talent-laden Midwest Regionals at Baton Rouge, La., where waiting in the wings is none other than unbeaten, No. 1-ranked Indiana. The Hoosiers walloped No. 17 St. John's 90-70 and led an advance of the top four teams in The Associated Press ratings.

At Tempe, Ariz., No. 18 Arizona downed Georgetown 83-76 and Pepperdine defeated Memphis State 87-77. Nevada-Las Vegas and UCLA won at Eugene, Ore.

Second-ranked Marquette whipped Western Kentucky 79-60; No. 3 Rutgers, the nation's only other undefeated quintet, had the scare of its life before nipping Princeton 54-53 and fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas buried Boise State 103-78. Sixth-ranked UCLA, the defending NCAA champion, also advanced with a 74-64 victory over San Diego State.

The Indiana-Alabama scuffle could turn into a showdown between Douglas and the Hoosiers' Scott May, AP College Player of the Year. May, who was hampered by a broken wrist when Indiana was eliminated in the regional finals of last year's NCAA Tournament, scored 33 points as the Hoosiers pulled away from stubborn St. John's with a 29-10 spurt midway through the second half.

Leon Douglas, a 6-foot-10 center who was the Southeastern Conference's Player of the Year, keyed Alabama's victory over North Carolina with 35 points and 17 rebounds. Now, it's on to Baton Rouge, La., to meet the mighty Hoosiers Thursday night.

"We're playing the best team in the country, without any question," Newton said. "This is a great opportunity for us and a great challenge for us."

This is the line-up for Thursday's regionals:

At Tempe, Ariz., No. 18 Arizona downed Georgetown 83-76 and Pepperdine defeated Memphis State 87-77. Nevada-Las Vegas and UCLA won at Eugene, Ore.

East, at Greensboro, N.C. — Rutgers vs. Connecticut and VMI vs. DePaul.

Once-beaten Marquette stretched its winning streak to 22 games with an easy triumph over Western Kentucky behind Butch Lee's 21 points and 18 by Earl Tatum. The Warriors committed only two turnovers en route to a 36-29 halftime lead and blew the Hilltoppers out with a 14-5 burst early in the second half.

Rutgers' perfect record was in jeopardy in the closing seconds but the Scarlet Knights, who led by 10 early in the second half, survived when Princeton's Pete Molloy, a little-used reserve guard, missed the first part of a one-and-one situation with four seconds left.

Midwest, at Louisville, Ky. — Notre Dame vs. Michigan and Missouri vs. Texas Tech.

Nevada-Las Vegas, which averaged 110.8 points a game during the regular season, took a 48-39 halftime lead over Boise and poured it on in the second half. Eddie Owens topped the Rebels with 24 points and Jackie Robinson added 20. UCLA's Richard Washington collected 25 and the Bruins broke open a tight game with San Diego State in the second half after leading by only three at the intermission.

West, at Los Angeles — Nevada-Las Vegas vs. Arizona and UCLA vs. Pepperdine.

Notre Dame, despite Adrian Dantley's 27 points, trailed Cincinnati most of the way but the Bearcats turned the ball over when they failed to inbound it in the allotted time with eight

The two big upsets of Saturday's opening round came at Charlotte, N.C., where unheralded VMI stunned ninth-ranked Tennessee 81-75 and similarly unranked DePaul turned back No. 13 Virginia 69-60. At Providence, R.I., Rutgers edged Princeton and Connecticut outlasted Hofstra 80-78 in overtime.

Alabama and Marquette won their games at Dayton, Ohio, while Indiana came through at

Finley outlines his plan

CHICAGO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charlie Finley says most baseball club owners support his plan which he says strictly observes two arbitration rulings on free agents in major league baseball.

Finley said he outlined the plan last week to club owners and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn in New York, but as far as he knows, management's negotiating team has not presented it to the players, negotiators.

"Maybe the negotiators plan to preent the plan, I don't know," Finley said in an interview Saturday. "But I do know that the vast majority of clubs, both in the American and National leagues, were in favor of it immediately."

In St. Petersburg, Fla., player representative Marvin Miller said during a break in the contract talks Sunday that he was not familiar with the plan.

Told that it followed closely the arbitrator's decision in ruling that pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally were free agents because they played out their option year, he said:

"They keep telling me — the owners, that is — that none of them can live with the one-and-one situation. But I know from reading the papers that there are several owners, maybe as many as seven or eight, who have said publicly that they can. I include among these Finley, Phil Wrigley, Brad Corbett and Bill Vecek."

Under the Finley plan, players who have not signed contracts for the 1976 season could play out their options this year, meaning they would be free to leave their clubs or stay next year.

There are presently about 160 players in both leagues who have not signed and who could be free agents in 1977, Finley said.

Celtics learn the hard way

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Celtics are learning just how much John Havlicek means to their offense ... and they're learning the hard way.

The Celtics have played six games since their captain and all-star forward suffered his knee injury, and have been held under 100 points each time out. The latest was a 102-89 loss to the Washington Bullets in a nationally televised battle of division leaders Sunday.

"We're scratching right now," said Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn, whose team is 3-3 without Havlicek but still leads the Atlantic Division by a comfortable margin. "Paul Silas is playing his game (at power forward), but we're not getting the job from the other forward and that's the scoring position."

"Havlicek gives us our basic points," he added. "Without him, we get caught where we can't play our style. The whole philosophy of the team is based on a sledgehammer attack — go, go, go at them."

The Celtics went at Washington in the early stages Sunday, but then their attack sputtered. The Bullets dominated the second half, outscoring Boston 52-39 and controlling the tempo of the game.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Los Angeles 137, Buffalo 109; New Orleans 118, Golden State 103; Kansas City 114, Atlanta 113, in overtime; Seattle 113, New York 103; Phoenix 108, Milwaukee 106, and Portland 114, Detroit 103.

Lakers 137, Bucks 109
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar hit 13 of 15 field goal attempts, scored 30 points and added 12 rebounds, eight assists, seven steals and three blocked shots as the Lakers equaled the highest one-game point total in the NBA this season.

Jazz 118, Warriors 103
Golden State, which clinched a tie for the Pacific Division title Saturday night, missed a chance to win it outright as the Jazz came up with its third victory in three night. Pete Maravich topped New Orleans with 33 points.

Blazers 114, Pistons 103
Portland center Bill Walton returned to action after a 17-game absence because of an injured right leg and scored eight points in a reserve role. Guards Geoff Petrie and Larry Steele scored 25 and 22 points, respectively, to help the Blazers snap a three-game losing streak.

Kings 114, Hawks 113
Nate Archibald's 22-foot jumper in the final minute of overtime provided the victory margin for the Kings. Archibald finished with 21 points and 16 assists.

Sonics 113, Knicks 103
Seattle built a 19-point lead and then held off a Knicks rally to post their sixth straight win over New York. Fred Brown topped the Sonics with 20 points.

Suns 108, Bucks 106
Paul Westphal's 12-footer from the baseline with 36 seconds to play was the winning basket for Phoenix, which came back from a 13-point half-time deficit. Rookie Alvan Adams led the Suns with 25 points.

ABA Results

The new-look Spirits of St. Louis are making their run at the American Basketball Association playoffs, and to make the post-season action they'll have to oust one of the league's old guard, the Indiana Pacers.

The Pacers, a charter member of the ABA, have never missed the playoffs and have won them three times. But they're in danger of being knocked out by the surging Spirits.

St. Louis moved to within one game of Indiana — and moved even in the loss column — Sunday in their battle for fifth place and the final playoff berth. The Spirits knocked off the San Antonio Spurs 111-95 while the Pacers were beaten by the Kentucky Colonels 130-119.

In Sunday's other ABA game, the New York Nets edged the Virginia Squires 110-106.

Spirits 111, Spurs 95

Second-year forwards Marvin Barnes and Moses Malone combined for 51 points and 29 rebounds to lead the Spirits to their sixth victory in the last eight outings.

Barnes scored 17 of his 24 points in the third quarter, when St. Louis moved out to a 14-point lead. Barnes also had 17 rebounds and six blocked shots.

Malone, one of four players who joined the Spirits when the Utah Stars folded, added 27 points and 12 rebounds. Rookie M.L. Carr added 17 points, ex-

Stars guard Ron Boone had 14 and center Caldwell Jones, obtained in a trade with Kentucky, had 13.

Colonels 130, Pacers 119

Artis Gilmore was too big and Bird Averitt too quick for the Pacers. Gilmore, the Colonels' 7-foot-2 center, scored 32 points, while 6-2 guard Averitt added 26.

Nets 110, Squires 106

Julius Erving scored 35 points to help New York hand Virginia its ninth consecutive loss and its 27th defeat in a row on the road. Virginia led by four points with 5½ minutes to go, but the Nets reeled off eight straight points to put the game away.

Fred Shero is surly

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
A time for celebration: Reggie Leach scores twice to become the second Philadelphia player to reach the 50-goal plateau and the Flyers remain unbeaten in 21 National Hockey League games as they gear up to defend their Stanley Cup championship.

Coach Fred Shero, however, had a surly reaction to Leach's accomplishment, his team's play and Sunday night's 6-1 triumph over the Atlanta Flames.

"Everyone can contribute more," scowled Shero after the Flyers' 15th triumph, with six ties, since a Jan. 21 loss in Atlanta.

He continued his remarks with a slight slap at Leach. "I'm resigned to the fact that Leach will always be a goal-scorer," replied Shero. "I'm not asking him to do anything impossible. All I want him to do is when he's 10 feet from the puck, to go after it — not let (center) Bobby Clarke do all the work."

"That's the kind of thing that makes us a team."

As a team, the Flyers worked hard enough to pique Flames Coach Fred Creighton, who observed after the contest that "this is the third time this season I have walked out of here embarrassed." The Flames also have dropped 7-2 and 7-3 decisions at Philadelphia this season.

Bruins 4, Seals 2
Wayne Cashman scored two goals, one of them off the skate of a Seals defenseman, as Boston extended its home winning streak to 14 games.

Dallas Smith and Johnny Bucyk had the other Bruins goals while Bob Murdoch and Fred Ahern hit for the Seals.

Canadiens 5, Capitals 1
Guy Lafleur netted his 46th and 47th goals of the campaign to carry Montreal over Washington. Goalie Michel Larocque was credited with a rare assist on Bob Gainey's game-opening tally for the Canadiens, who outshot the Caps 42-22.

Penguins 7, Blues 1
Ron Schock scored twice during the four-goal first period which sent Pittsburgh past St. Louis and into a tie with second-place Los Angeles in the Norris Division.

Black Hawks lose 5-3 to Islanders

CHICAGO (AP) — Garry Howatt of the New York Islanders didn't mind getting knocked down and punched, but what really bothered him was not getting his fourth goal.

"The fact that I got knocked down after getting my third goal and punched really didn't bother me," he said after his second three-goal game of the season pushed the Islanders past the Chicago Black Hawks 5-3 Sunday night.

"What did bother me was the fact that I could have gotten my fourth goal, but I passed it up to let somebody else shoot."

The win extended New York's National Hockey League unbeaten string to 11 games, and gave the Hawks their fifth loss in the last six games.

Coach Al Arbour of the Islanders noted that his club "has been playing solidly the last month, perhaps the best of the year."

"Again it took a great team effort, and again we came from behind. Tonight it was Garry Howatt who provided the spark. When you get it from a different player every night, you know you're doing something right."

Indicative of the kind of balance Arbour was talking about was the fact that Howatt became the ninth Islander to score 20 goals this season. Howatt's second score tied the game at 3-3, only 33 seconds after the Hawks' Darcy Rota had put Chicago ahead 3-2 with his 19th goal of the season.

Rookie Billy Harris put the Islanders ahead to stay when he hit on his 29th goal of the year from 25 feet out. Then Jude Drouin put frosting on the cake to score his 21st goal with less than four minutes left.

Washington's Reach—part 4

Traffic safety, pollution programs showing results

By BROOKS JACKSON and
EVANS WITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's highway death rate is one-third lower than it was 10 years ago when Washington began requiring safety equipment on cars.

The level of eye-burning sulphur dioxide in the nation's air has dropped 25 per cent since federal environmental controls were imposed five years ago.

If this decade of expanded federal regulation has saved lives and reduced pollution, it has also extended Washington's reach into the lives of individual citizens in ways never before experienced in this country.

Since 1965, the number of major regulatory agencies has doubled from 12 to 24.

This new regulation costs money. The record of progress has been uneven and claims of progress hard to justify. The five-year-old Occupational Safety and Health Administration, for example, has yet to produce solid evidence it has reduced job deaths and injuries.

Some of the agencies have made an obvious mark. The antidiscrimination laws enforced by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission have helped blacks and other minorities increase the number of technical and professional jobs they hold by one-third.

Traffic Safety
The record of the Traffic Safety Administration, one of the first in the recent surge of new agencies, shows in a nutshell the benefits and costs of the new wave of federal regulation. Highways are safer now. Deaths and disabling injuries have been averted, probably by the thousands. Cars cost more. And when the bureaucracy becomes too eager, it can do more harm than good.

When Congress established the agency in 1966, the traffic death rate had reversed its historic slide and had been increasing for five years. More than 50,000 were killed on highways that year, a record at the time.

Today, after nearly a decade of regulation, the death rate per passenger mile is the lowest since statistics have been kept. The rate has dropped each year since the traffic safety law was enacted and the number of persons killed in vehicle accidents is now below the 1966 figure.

Preliminary figures for last year show the death rate had dropped below 3.6 per 100 million miles, compared to 5.7 in 1966.

A dramatic number of auto fatalities were prevented in 1974 as the byproduct of the energy crisis. The gasoline shortage brought the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit, a reduction in highway travel — and 9,400 fewer highway deaths than the year before.

But last year, as speed edged up and travel resumed its upward climb, the actual number of highway deaths did not increase and the death rate per mile continued to drop.

Even Ford Motor Co., which says regulations are becoming excessive and too expensive, estimates that cars equipped to meet 1971 safety standards kill and injure about 25 per cent fewer people than unregulated cars.

Such protection costs money. Ford estimates its 1971 Pinto carried $120 in federally required safety equipment. That soared to $325 for a 1975 model with new side-door reinforcing beams, stronger roof supports, heavier bumpers and seat belt warning systems.

Putting On the Brakes
Some of the traffic safety agency's rules have been flops — like the bus-brake affair.

Last year, it required all new air-braked trucks, trailers and buses to carry bigger brakes and expensive computer systems to prevent the wheels from locking in a skid during panic stops.

But when the system's sensors on buses got out of adjustment by as little as six one-thousandths of an inch, the computer would release the brakes during normal braking speeds of about 10 mph and then slam on the brakes at around 5 mph, throwing passengers to the bus floor.

Bus companies began disconnecting their $1,200 "super-brake" system and Massachusetts threatened to lift the permits of any bus company using the federally required gear.

Finally, after three days of hearings and a two-month comment period, the agency temporarily suspended the standard on Jan. 7.

A similar, if slightly loosened standard is still in effect for semi-trailer truck rigs, despite protests and court suits by drivers and trucking firms.

Job Safety and Health
In the five years since it was formed, the highly controversial Occupational Safety and Health Administration has produced no reliable indication that it has saved many workers' lives or prevented any significant number of serious job injuries.

In fact, there is still no agreement on even how many workers are killed each year in job accidents. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates 5,900 died from job accidents or diseases in 1974, a projection based on reports by 600,000 employers.

But the National Safety Council says its analysis of death certificates shows work accidents caused 13,400 deaths that year.

As evidence of their effectiveness, federal job-safety officials point to a reported drop in the 1973 injury rates in such industries as logging, longshoring and roofing, the so-called "target industries" where OSHA concentrated early enforcement efforts.

Yet the rates of serious injuries — those which resulted in lost workdays — actually went up in three out of the five industries in 1973. In 1974, when no special enforcement efforts were made, the rate of serious injuries declined in three and went up in two.

In short, the statistics for the very industries where OSHA concentrated its efforts, show no trend in one direction or another.

If OSHA can't yet claim any clear victory, it at least has the satisfaction of proving its critics wrong on a number of counts.

Industry witnesses, for example, once predicted that OSHA's proposal to impose strict protection for workers in polyvinyl chloride plants would put 2.2 million people out of work and cost the economy at least $60 billion.

But OSHA was alarmed by 17 workers' deaths from a rare form of liver cancer linked to the chemical in lab tests with rats. Strict exposure limits were imposed.

What happened? In the year after OSHA's action, one plant did close, but four others opened and the price of polyvinyl chloride declined about 10 per cent below previous highs.

Once a Decade
Small businessmen also said they feared overzealous safety inspectors would ruin them.

But the average worker can expect to see one of OSHA's 1,400 compliance officers about once a decade, at present rates. Fines average $25 per violation. Employers appeal fewer than five per cent of all citations and even then they almost always remove the cited hazard, an indication OSHA inspectors generally stick to the book and avoid arbitrary rulings.

Safety at Home

One federal agency has exercised power to decree that an electric frypan is unsafe and to make it harder to open aspirin bottles. It may order that all new bicycles and lawn mowers be redesigned.

In three years of existence, the Consumer Product Safety Commission has banished 20 million items from store shelves and homes on grounds they were unsafe.

These included bottles that exploded, disposable cigarette lighters that flared up unexpectedly, electric ranges that shocked their owners and snowmobiles prone to sudden steering failures.

The commission has made mistakes. The courts voided the commission's seizure of 100,000 imported dolls from Bradley Import Co. in Los Angeles. The commission said the dolls were unsafe for children because the costumes were held on with pins. The court, noting that the dolls sold in fashionable gift stores at prices around $75, said there was no evidence the dolls were intended for use by children.

The commission is now pondering a controversial proposal to require new safety features on lawnmowers, which injured 63,306 persons last year, according to a survey of hospital emergency rooms.

Consumers Union, which the commission paid to study the matter, estimates the proposal would add $40 to the cost of a $125 push-type mower, for a variety of features including rotor blades that stop instantly. But this $40 estimate is based on a survey of manufacturers that the consumer group feels is unreliable.

Consumers Union also estimates the benefits of the proposal would be between $83 million and $580 million, depending in part on what value is placed on the pain caused by such injuries. In short, the commission can't be sure what the mower safety proposal is worth or what it would cost.
